Sgt. C. Fred Denson Reported Killed In India

Wife Is Informed He Was Killed In Action; Was Well Known In Communities

Word was received this week by Mrs. Charles Fred Denson from the War Department that her husband, Sgt. Charles Fred Denson, 27, had been killed in action over India, June 5th.

Sgt. Denson was the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Denson, of 2212 Shober street, Revolution, and was, before entering the service in 1942, a member of the Greensboro Fire Department. He was well know in the local communities, and his many friends are saddened at the news of his death.

After entering the service, he trained in several schools of the Air Forces, and completed his training at Pratt Field, Kansas. He returned home last February, before being assigned to overseas duty. While here he was married to Miss Louise Self.

He was senior gunner on a B-29 bomber, and had served in the China, Burma and India war theater for the past three months.

In addition to his wife and parents, he is survived by two sisters, Mrs. David Strickland and Mrs. Herman Murphy, and two brothers, Ralph and Lloyd Denson, all of Greensboro.

Proximity Women Invited To Supper And Picture Show

There is a real treat in store for all Proximity women next Tuesday evening, June 20, when they gather in the club room of the welfare department for a Covered Dish Supper at 6:30 o'clock followed by a moving picture show at 7:30. The title of the picture is, "Canning The Victory Garden", and will be of great interest to all those who are interested in canning. The film is the property of Good Housekeeping magazine and is being shipped here for our use before it is turned over to the U. S. Government.

The supper at 6:30 will be a treat itself, each person bringing their favorite "dish" which will be served picnic style. This meeting will take the place of the regular monthly Community Club meeting.

White Oak Special

Workers at the White Oak Surgical Dressing room at the welfare building last Thursday night broke the record for one evening by making 1,020 dressings. This is a record for this class and they have hopes of exceeding this number at all classes during June or until they double the quota of last month, which was 3,669. You are cordially invited to join this group on Thursday evenings or Wednesday and Friday mornings.

NUMBER ONE! The fifth war loan began Monday. Above is the "number one" buy, for the average American family. These "buys" come in $25, $50, $100, $500, and $1,000 denominations, and sell for 75 percent of their maturity value. Our goal is $16 billion . . . our part in the invasion and siege of our enemy, the Axis. Buy more than before!

Our Stake In America

During the 5th War Loan, which calls for $118 per capita, it is well to consider our stake in America—what we have built, what it means to us, why it is worth fighting for.

A recent booklet published by the Allis-Chalmers Mfg. Co., under the title "Good Living," starts off its answer to these questions by pointing out that ". . . America was skimmed off the top of the world."

"We were settled," it says, "by the hardiest, toughest, fightingest people of many countries.

"Americans come in all colors and sizes, yet in some subtle way they look alike and have kinship that's deeper than racial strains. For one thing they look well fed. They look self-reliant and confident. They laugh easily. They like to work. You could pass a thousand of them on the street without meeting one it would be safe to push around.

"Some of our thinkers have an alien way of referring to industry, labor and farming as separate divisions of our set-up—something like the rulers and serfs, or aristocrats and lower classes, of decadent countries. That's all wrong. We have no such divisions. We have just one unified, correlated process—to create good living for all.

"Every American factory wheel that turns, every stack that smokes and every tractor-drawn plow biting into black loom is dedicated, in time of peace, not to predatory wealth or power over others, not to leisure for the few, but to the single aim of adding to the richness and comfort of American homes, to the fineness of American life and to the promise of a hopeful future."

Possibly this is why the course of the war has changed from defense to aggressive offense. Possibly it is the reason for our gigantic supply of the world's best fighting equipment. Possibly it is responsible for the millon gallons of blood Americans have given so freely for our fighting men.

Maybe this is the reason why we have all contributed our time, our labor and our money in such full measure. Maybe it is responsible for our temporary acceptance of war regulations and controls. Maybe it is the reason why we have come through so magnificently with seven billion, thirteen billion, eighteen billion and sixteen billion dollars worth of War Bonds, each amount exceeding the quota called for in the 1st, 2nd, 3rd and 4th War Bond drives. Maybe these things have made us confident not only of our ability but of our willingness to go over the top with the 5th War Bond drive.

We, Americans—and vastly proud of the fact—know what we want and we are determined to get it—no matter what the cost!

Donald Marshburn Celebrates Birthday

Master Donald Marshburn was given a surprise birthday party Friday afternoon by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Marshburn, Maple street. Maizie, Donald's sister, assisted Donald in entertaining the guests. After games were played and prizes awarded, Mrs. W. J. Marshburn, mother of the honoree, assisted by Mrs. R. W. Marshburn, an aunt, served cake and punch.

The guests were: Billy and Ruby Marshburn, Lillian Stone, Eloise Burgess, Beth Loman, Louise Ward, Jeanette Brown, Patty and Carol Apple, Helen Thornburg, Delores Alberty, Betty Dennis, Nellie Branson, Wayne Cates, David Stutts, Jerry Hinshaw, Hubert Hanner, Richard Spivey, Jimmie Davidson and Bob Ward.

Who Ranks Who?

A story Washington is tittering about goes like this:

Flying from Calcutta to New Delhi in a U. S. air transport plane on which he was the only civilian among Generals, was newspaperman Turner Catledge. The pilot, a harassed and rank-conscious Captain, announced upon landing that the passengers would debark "according to rank," which rather confused Catledge who was nearest the door.

So venturing where Generals feared to tread, the indomitable newsman spake "Well as an American taxpayer I'm probably the ranking passenger."

And he got off first.

White Oak Community Club To View Picture

Film "Canning The Victory Crop" To Be Shown; Best Canning Methods Shown

At the White Oak community club meeting Monday evening at the welfare building at 7:30 o'clock, a moving picture, "Canning the Victory Crop", will be shown. This picture was filmed by the Good Housekeeping magazine in their own kitchen, where new methods and equipment are constantly tested, and is approved by the U. S. Government Department of Agriculture.

Secretary of Agriculture Wickard says that the need for food is "practically unlimited—and greater than ever before in history", and the production of this film is the Good Housekeeping magazine's contribution to our government's food conservation program. Its purpose is to aid in making the urgent need for food conservation better known to the general public. We do hope and urge that every homemaker, who possibly can, will see this picture, as we feel that it will be quite helpful and interesting.

Card of Thanks

We wish to express our appreciation to our many friends for their numerous acts of kindness and their expressions of sympathy extended to us during the recent death of our mother, Julia E. Watlington.—Myrtle Watlington and family.

Kentucky Partners To Give Show At Ceasar Cone School

Revolution Community To See Movie June 22

Movie On Canning Foods Raised In Victory Garden To Be Shown On June 22

On June 22 at 7:30 o'clock in the club-room, a movie, "Canning the Victory Crop," will be shown. This picture was filmed in Good Housekeeping kitchen, where the best method of canning foods are tested.

"Canning the Victory Crop" is being distributed as a contribution to our Government's food conservation program. It is estimated that at least half of the food produced this year will be used for our own armed forces and for our allies, so the need for growing and canning food is greater than ever before.

The purpose of this moving picture, "Canning the Victory Crop," is to show us all the importance of having home-canned foods on our own shelves and to give the easiest and safest methods for putting it there for use next winter when foods are scarce and high in points and money.

Every one, men, women and girls, are cordially invited and urged to see this picture. Come and bring a neighbor or friend. "Eat all you can eat, and can all you cannot eat."

Loyal Wesley Class Has Enjoyable Meeting

The Loyal Wesley class of Carraway Memorial Methodist church had its regular monthly meeting Tuesday evening at the welfare building. Mrs. R. E. Loman, president of the class, presided. Mrs. Maude Hicks had charge of the devotional. Misses Rachel Loman, Ruth Shelton, and Myrtdell Meadows gave several musical selections. The usual business was transacted.

During a social hour, which was greatly enjoyed, Mrs. R. F. Walters, Mrs. G. R. Holland, Mrs. B. W. Moore, and Mrs. W. O. Leonard, as hostess, served grapejuice and cake. Members present were: Mesdames R. E. Wyrick, F. Blackmon, R. E. Loman H. G. Porter, C. L. Thornbro, J. H. Harder, J. H. Cates, John Foust, G. B. McIntyre, H. Pennington, F. R. Layton, A. R. Murray, B. W. Moore, Frank Graves, Sr., W. O. Leonard, Archie Calhoun, Maude Hicks, G. R. Holland, James F. Nance, and Miss Pearl Wyche. Rev. G. W. Clay was a visitor.

Assembly Pays Tribute To The Cone Family During Meeting Held In Celebration Of The Centennial Activities Of Cone Y.M.C.A.'s

The Cone Memorial Young Men's Christian Association concluded its celebration of the centennial activities with an appropriate banquet in which members of the association who have from many and varied angles had some part or made contribution toward success of the one hundredth anniversary of the Young Men's Christian Association were recognized.

T. Settle Graham attorney of this city, and for seventeen years a member of the board of directors of the city Y.M.C.A., was the speaker of the evening. In a very unique narrative the speaker retraced the origin of the Y.M.C.A. from London, England, in 1844, across the Atlantic ocean to Montreal, Canada, and by way of Boston in 1851, where the association has had its greatest growth and progress. In the year 1910 the first Y. was organized in our city.

Mr. Bernard M. Cone paid tribute to Harry A. Barnes and Grover W. Foster who, by their untiring efforts and deep interest in association work, pioneered the work in the White Oak community back in 1908 with very meagar equipment, but never the less, doing effective work. Mr. Cone felt the time was ripe about 1920 to erect adequate building facilities for the Y. M.C.A. in keeping with the wishes of the late Ceasar Cone, who had conceived the need of a place where employees of the Cone Mills could have recreation, adult education, social activities and a place where men and women could meet after working hours.

Mr. Herman Cone, President of the Proximity Manufacturing company, spoke briefly of the progress of the Y.M.C.A. in the past twenty-two years and sounded the key note of the occasion by challenging workers, committees and every member of the association to expect greater responsibilities in the post war period; and that the Y. would rise to the needs of men in industry to build a better world order. Mr. Cone also presented the retired members of the association including Mr. James A. Bangle, Mr. G. P. Stone, Mr. Harry A. Barnes, James F. Martin, J. F. Wicker, C. E. Blake, and W. A. Beach.

Mr. Harry A. Barnes gave a comprehensive synopsis of the work of the Cone Memorial Y.M.C.A. in the twenty-two and one-half years of its work with men and boys. Mr. Raymond Kincaid, chairman of the Centennial committee, spoke briefly, expressing appreciation to the various committees for their cooperation in the centennial celebration. Mr. A. S. Arnold, general secretary of the Cone Memorial Y.M.C.A. presented members of the Ministerial Association as a group; Indian Guide tribes; Past Presidents of the Y.M.C.A.; Teachers groups and their part in the pageant; and presented the prize awards to members of the Emblem club as follows: Harvey Strickland, at Proximity mill won grand prize; Clarence Hobbs first prize; Otis Bowden second prize and Mrs. Sallie Sims third prize. Mack Davis won first place at White Oak mills; Mrs. Etta Pickard second and Mrs. Katharine Leonard third place. At Revolution mills: Mack Fulk first place; R. H. Cagle second and David Sink third place. All are to be congratulated upon the fine record they have made since January first.

Floyd T. Noah, chairman of the Membership council and spokesman for the Emblem club, presented Secretary Arnold with a beautiful Y.M.C.A. triangle with diamond setting for his cooperation with this department, making him an honorary member of the club. Mrs. Katherine Leonard presented the pin by pinning it on the lapel of his coat.

A very fitting climax of the evening was an expression of appreciation by all present to the Cone family for the splendid Y. buildings and the support they have given, making possible the continuation of the association work in the Cone Mills. M. W. Heiss and Clarence Cone were also recognized. The banquet was served by Mrs. Edna Martin Trantham and girls from White Oak, Revolution, Proximity and Print Works communities in a most efficient manner. The Y.M.C.A. expresses appreciation to all who have had a part in the centennial celebration.

Steady Work, Bond Buying And Winning The War

The 5th War Bond Drive is on. Our army, navy and marine corps are now engaged in great drives in bringing our enemies to a point of unconditional surrender. The funds derived from war bonds are an essential part of our drive to a complete victory. Without our investments our Government cannot properly supply the essentials indispensable to our military campaigns for victory.

Millions of dollars are daily needed to conduct this war. It is repetition to say that the Government is not asking for gifts. They are asking each of us to make an investment in the soundest security known to man. They are even paying interest on these investments.

An enormous number of bonds could have already been purchased with days lost from work, and when we say that, we do not refer to days lost because of sickness, death, or other excusable reasons.

Bond buying can be logically connected up with greater production of war materials just as bond buying can be definitely connected with our present military drive for victory. Bond buying can certainly be connected very closely with everyday attendance at work when able to do so, for as suggested above, the better percentage of attendance, the more money available for investment in war bonds. The better the attendance, the greater is the production of vitally needed war materials.

When we realize that with the improved transportation facilities accomplished by freeing the seas of the submarine menace and by more ships available, our production in these plants and other plants making war materials is only forty-five days from the fighting fronts our production work becomes more significant to us. In other words, in practically a month and a half fabrics we are making now in our plants will be available for the fighting men on the battle fronts. Every yard of goods that we fail to make because of poor attendance will be felt by our armed forces in approximately forty-five days.

We can carry that a step further. The lack of funds to buy bonds because of poor attendance will also retard the Government purchasing needed materials for fighting, and we might conclude that the lack of funds in the hands of the Government today will be felt by our fighting forces by the first of August.

We, therefore, urge our readers in thinking of the Bond Drive that they also think of the funds available for buying bonds through regular attendance at work whenever possible, and in thinking of attendance at work that they also think of the need of materials we make in order to fight the enemy and the time closeness of the fighting front to the actual cloth that we turn out daily in our plants here in Greensboro.

It is certainly possible for us to meet our bond quota. We believe that our people will measure up and will assist the Government in financing this war which is vital to our everyday lives now and in the future and by so doing make a safe investment which will enable them to look to the future with a greater sense of security and with an ultimate saving to themselves.

If we were to say that a hundred dollars would be actually saved in buying items like automobiles after the war through the purchase of bonds, some people might think it a very foolish statement. However, in our opinion such can be the case, and in so saying, we do not refer to the interest paid by the government. We refer to the fact that in innumerable cases when such items as automobiles are bought carrying charges and interest charges frequently run up to one hundred dollars because purchasers do not have the ready cash. By having bonds after the war, the purchasers can pay cash and save carrying charges and interest, and on top of that, as is very evident, they will have accumulated additional funds through interest the Government pays on war bonds.

Women's Missionary Circle No. 3 of Eller Memorial Baptist church met for the regular monthly meeting Monday night with Mrs. Webster Mahaffey at her home, 1616 Walnut street. The meeting was opened by singing "Throw Out The Life Line". The scripture was read by Mrs. Helen Shepherd, and prayer by Mrs. Eli Craven. The meeting was then turned over to the guest speaker, Miss Leah Andrews, who gave an interesting talk on "His Mighty Acts in Mid-America". Those present were Mesdames T. M. O'Brien, Helen Shepherd Eli Craven, Hattie Dotson, A. M. Craven, Herman Johnson, Robert Johnson, Parks Gregory, Webster Mahaffey and Misses Peggy Gregory and Leah Andrews.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Carter of Elkin spent the week end with their daughters, Misses Edith and Omega Carter.

Mr. Millard Fagleman of the Packing and Shipping department is out sick.

Mr. and Mrs. Eli Craven and family spent the week end with Mr. Craven's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Craven of Hemp.

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Welborn visited friends and relatives in Print Works the past week end. "Pap" says it is too wet to plough in Wilkes county.

Mr. and Mrs. Moir Ayers and daughter spent the week at Atlantic.

Mrs. Ruby Whitesell has joined the WACS.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Powell spent June 2 through 7 in New York City. Mr. Powell visited the Cone Company offices and attended the National Office Managers Association convention, which was held June 5, 6 and 7 at Hotel New Yorker. On June 3 they went up the Hudson River to Bear Mountain with the Cone company crowd.

Cotton Suit and Dress Form Basic Wardrobe

What woman doesn't wish that all the pieces of her wardrobe would fit together and form a variety of costumes for different occasions? Just to show that it's easy to plan a whole spring wardrobe with the smallest number of garments, the fashion director of the Cotton-Textile Institute and National Cotton Council devised a basic spring wardrobe with every item of cotton from top to toe!

The whole wardrobe consists of just two complete costumes, with complementary accessories, but every garment and accessory fits in with every other bit of apparel like the pieces of a jig-saw puzzle. In addition to making the wardrobe suitable for most occasions, it was also designed for three seasons' wear in moderate climates—yeat-round in balmy ones.

Every spring must have its suit, and nothing looks fresher than navy, so the starting point of the wardrobe is a cotton gabardine dressmaker suit in navy made from a pattern. The simple smart lines of the suit make it appropriate for almost any occassion at any time of day, depending on accompanying accessories.

The other costume is a shirt-waist dress of pink, blue and white plaid gingham, also made from a pattern with the new cardigan neck. One hat, of navy cotton gabardine to match the suit, goes with both outfits, but looks as though it had been especially designed for each because Helen Garnell made it with alternate trimmings that pin on—a set of plaid gingham hat-pins to match the dress and a white pique tailored bow for the suit. The white bird's eye pique trim also match a gilet and gloves designed by Merry Hull. Another pair of gloves of the navy gabardine with gingham cuffs, gabardine handbag, and shoes and lacy cotton mesh stockings complete the wardrobe. The shoes were purchased when OPA recently ruled that for a limited time certain types of footwear could be bought without a ration stamp.

When the gingham dress is worn under the suit, to look like a blouse, with the hat not sporting its gingham pins and the navy gloves with gingham turnbacks, this is a less formal costume than the blue and white but will go nearly anywhere during spring, summer and fall.

Remove the suit skirt, and there's a street outfit for late spring and cool summer days. The same gabardine shoes and lacy hose are worn with each costume.

For those mature women who say they would "live in cottons all spring and summer if we could find them" this cotton wardrobe is the answer and can be easily made by anyone clever with the needle.

Proximity Up Three Points For Week

Look at that Proximity honor roll this week! Seven departments above ninety per cent: Carding, first; Weaving, first; Beaming and Slashing, first and second; Dyeing, first; Finishing, second; and Shipping. Second shift Dyeing has fallen off after winning the flag for the last month, but second shift Carding has gotten out of the cellar. That means that Bud Everhart and his boys are getting in the game. Keep it up, fellows! Second shift Spinning is on the bottom this week.

Over at White Oak there are only three departments with ninety per cent. Well, can't you fellows keep up with Proximity? First shift Carding stays pretty good but never bats high enough to get the flag. How about it, Captain Gibson?

Revolution has nine honor roll departments with First shift Napping over ninety-nine per cent. Count the others for yourselves. First shift Spinning is in the Revolution-cellar with 83.34 per cent. Let's boost it!

Print Works has only one department, the Engravers, below ninety per cent. They won the attendance flag last month.

The printer made some mistakes last week so here are the corrections:

Proximity Carding, first shift 91.57
White Oak Carding, fist shift 91.58
Revolution Card., first shift 92.08

Mote Cloth

There was some excitement on the car the other day. A man gave his seat to a woman and she fainted. When she recovered, she thanked him and he fainted.

The millionaire was boasting to his friends about his success in life. "All my success, all my financial prestige," he said, "I owe to one thing—pluck."

"Yes," said one of the party, "but how do you find the right people to pluck?"

A two-star General, returning to camp one evening, couldn't produce his identification. The rookie on guard duty, unimpressed, refused to let him pass through the gates. Finally the exasperated General bent forward, pointed to the stars on his shoulders, and bellowed: "Do you know what these mean?"

"Sure," popped the rookie, "you got two sons in the service."

Recruit: "How far is it from here to the Army camp?"

Native: "About five miles as the crow flies."

Recruit: "How far is it if the crow has to walk and carry a rifle?"

A couple of American aviators had been shot down and were floating around the Pacific in their rubber boat when a Jap submarine surfaced and its crew called on the aviators to surrender.

The fliers held a whispered conference.

"That's the stuff," said one to the other. "Let them think we're giving up. Then, when they get close we'll ram em."

It happened during the rush for gasoline ration coupons, and the scene was an American high school. The white-haired teacher at the table looked up and grinned at the man standing before her, application in hand.

"Well," she said, "after all these years, I'm finally able to give you an 'A'!"

A young couple asked the parson to marry them immediately following the Sunday morning service. When the time came, the minister arose to say:

"Will those who wish to be united in holy bonds of matrimony please come forward?"

There was a great stir as thirteen women and one man approached the altar.

The chap with bad eyesight was examined by the draft medico—and placed in 1-A. "But my eyes are terrible," he pointed out. "I can hardly see anything."

"Look," said the doctor, "we don't examine eyes any more—we just count them."

Don Herold Says:

I don't like the wards, "free enterprise." They don't say what they mean.

What they really mean is freedom to hustle, freedom of opportunity, freedom for individual initiative, freedom to rise to the top if you have energy and thriftiness and brains—but not at somebody else's expense.

They mean the chance to serve a lot of people in a big way and to get paid for it fairly.

They mean your children and mine can go farther than we've come.

If it means wealth for you, fine! It's fun to live in a country where anybody, even you or I, may take a chance and hit the jackpot.

All businesses start as an idea in somebody's head and with the risk of a few saved dollars in somebody's pocket. All big business are little businesses at first.

I'm sure everybody in America wants freedom of honest opportunity with minimum restrictions, but of course with laws to prevent fouls and biting in the clinches.

maybe setting a dial or two. There might even be a gadget to change the baby, or maybe babies won't need changing, we've forgotten which.

Automobiles, if we still have 'em, will be something out of this world, and most of us will filt through the skies in helicopters, or in planes that become autos at the flip of a wrist.

We're not sure how much of this will come true. Perhaps a good deal of it. But there is one thing we are sure about. No matter what the brave new world brings, it will not bring a substitute for character, honesty, sportmanship or religion. That means there will be no substitute for the Young Men's Christian Association and the things for which it stands.

In the century since it was started in 1844 by twelve young men in a London bedroom, the Y.M.C.A. has seen many marvels become commonplace; the railroads, motion pictures, telegraph, telephone, radio, automobiles, submarines and aeroplanes to mention but a few. It is entirely possible that during the next hundred years there will come advances that will far surpass any of these.

But we don't think that anything is going to surpass Christian ideals. Whether our kids tear around in model T jalopies or streamlined planes, they will need the Y., for come what may, character will still count.

Character Will Still Count

If we can believe only half of what we read about it, that brave new world of the future will be a most wondrous place indeed.

There'll be no more illness because magical lights, filters, traps and sprays will slay germs before they get a chance at us. Any that survive will be blitzed by miracle drugs before they can establish a beachhead in our bodies.

Food will be so crammed with vitamins that we'll have nary a tooth ailmen, and men won't get thin on top and thick through the middle. The ladies will be abe to run their households by pushing a few buttons, or

First And Last— A Good Influence

Most of us, at one time or another in our lives, have been exposed in greater or lesser degree to the influence of the Y.M.C.A. Some of us have lived in Y. dormitories and some have played basketball on Y. courts; many of us took our first swim under Y. auspices, and others have studied in Y. classrooms.

Some of us have used Y. gyms to build up muscle, other have used those same gyms to remove excess blubber. In the last war Mrs. Vincent Astor served us coffee and doughnuts in the Bordeaux Y. hut; and there was that English-speaking mam'selle, name of Yvonne, in the Pauillac Y. hut on the bank of the Gironde river, who knocked all our hearts for a loop every time we went in the place.

As we have grown older, a good many of us haven't been as close to the Y. as we used to be. But we know that first and last it has been a good influence in our lives, and that it continues to help the young fellows who are coming along now. We are glad, therefore, to call atention to the fact that the Y. observes its 100th anniversary this month. We are certain that in its second century the Y.M.C.A. will find still greater opportunities for usefulness, and will do an even better job than it has in the past.
